Comments:

@@@(3) the substantive protections provided under the regulation - Regulators should update section 226.13(b) to include email notification received by the company either through their website or dedicated email address and notification sent by fax to the number provided by the company. I think that some companies rely on technicalities to exclude valid claims received by the correct department, within regulatory timeframes because when the regulation was written 36 years ago, everyone didn't have an email, website or fax.
